Introduction

- [1] Although this booklet is not an exact statement of the law relating to appeals, the information it contains will assist those taking part in appeals.

These procedures have been drawn up under Article 111(5) of the Planning (NI) Order 1991. They are based on the principles of openness, fairness and impartiality by which the Commission operates. As there are no statutory rules for the conduct of appeals this document sets out Commission procedures. All are required to follow these procedures and have a duty to act in a fair and reasonable way and to respect rulings by the Commission and/or Commissioner. All information presented to the Commission will be processed in accordance with the Data Protection Act (see Appendix I).

The Planning Appeals Commission

- [2] The Planning Appeals Commission (PAC) exists under the Planning (Northern Ireland) Order 1991. It is an independent body which decides appeals made in respect of various decisions and notices issued by the Department of the Environment (DoE) and by District Councils. The PAC is not part of the DoE or any other Assembly department.
- [3] Members of the PAC are called Commissioners and they are public appointees. They have varied backgrounds and qualifications including town planning, architecture, environmental science and law. They make decisions on appeals on behalf of the PAC and recommendations to the PAC on the outcome of appeals after studying written submissions from the parties involved and after conducting hearings and site visits, some accompanied, into the case.
- [4] The PAC aims to make the best possible appeal decisions in an efficient manner through the most effective procedures appropriate to each appeal. This requires the co-operation of all involved. The PAC is committed to ensuring that the appeals process is as user friendly as possible and involves the best possible use of resources.
- [5] Administrative staff are responsible for the day to day operation of the PAC's work. While they are available to deal with enquiries from the public about procedures, they are unable to comment on the merits of individual appeals or offer advice or guidance on the possible outcome of any case.

PAC Decision Making

- [6] The PAC decision on an appeal may be made by a single Commissioner (called an individual decision) or by a panel of not fewer than four Commissioners (called a collective decision). Based on criteria published on the PAC website www.pacni.gov.uk the Chief Commissioner decides if the decision in the appeal should be an individual or a collective decision. A single Commissioner appeal may also be recovered by the Chief Commissioner for a collective decision at any point before it is issued by the PAC. The DoE or the District Council, as the case may be and the appellant will be informed of the type of decision to be made.

The Right of Appeal

- [7] Operators of an installation or mobile plant may appeal to the PAC against the Enforcing Authority (DoE or District Council) in the following circumstances.
- (a) refusal or deemed refusal to grant a permit;
 - (b) refusal or deemed refusal of an application to vary a permit;
 - (c) if the operator disagrees with the conditions imposed by the authority as a result of a permit application or an application for a variation notice;
 - (d) refusal or deemed refusal of an application to transfer a permit, or if the operator disagrees with the conditions imposed by the authority to take account of such a transfer;
 - (e) refusal or deemed refusal of an application to surrender a permit, or if the operator disagrees with the conditions imposed by the authority to take account of the surrender.
 - (f) the service of a variation notice (not following an application by the operator), a revocation notice, an enforcement notice, or a suspension notice on the operator;
 - (g) the decision that information will not be withheld from the public register for reasons of commercial confidentiality.

Appeals under (c) - (f) above do not stop the conditions coming into effect. Appeals against variation, enforcement and suspension notices do not stop the notices coming into effect. However, appeals against revocation notices suspend the operation of the notices coming into effect until the appeal is decided or withdrawn.

Time Limits for Submitting an Appeal

- [8] An appeal, using the appropriate form, must be lodged with the PAC within the time periods listed.
- Appeals (a) to (e) must be received by the PAC within 6 months of the date of the decision or deemed decision which is the subject of the appeal.
 - An appeal against revocation notice must be received by the PAC before the date on which the revocation would take effect.
 - Appeal against a variation notice (not requested by the operator), an enforcement notice or a suspension notice must be received by the PAC
 - An appeal about a decision on commercial confidentiality must be received by the PAC within 21 days of the date of the decision which is the subject of the appeal.

The PAC has no power to extend the periods.

Submitting the Appeal Forms

- [9] To make an appeal you should complete the environmental appeal form. This may be downloaded from the PAC's website www.pacni.gov.uk or may be obtained from:-

The Chief Administrative Officer
Park House
87-91 Great Victoria Street
BELFAST BT2 7AG
Telephone number: (028) 9024-4710
Fax number: (028) 9031-1338
e-mail address: info@pacni.gov.uk website address: www.pacni.gov.uk

- [10] Before sending an appeal to the PAC, appellants should check that the environmental appeal form has been fully completed and ensure that their grounds of appeal are indicated. Appellants should also submit copies of any application forms, any maps or plans, any decision or notice received and copies of relevant correspondence with the DoE/District Council. There is no fee for an appeal.

Can an Appeal be Withdrawn

- [11] An appeal may be withdrawn by the appellant at any time before the appeal decision is issued. If you wish to withdraw your appeal you should contact the PAC at once by telephone and must then confirm the withdrawal in writing quoting the appeal reference number. This is especially important where a hearing has been arranged. If an appeal against a revocation notice is withdrawn, the notice will take effect immediately.
- [12] Withdrawing an appeal causes the PAC administrative problems and has implications for the re-scheduling of Commissioners' workload. Appellants should therefore carefully consider whether or not to appeal in the first instance

Can Objectors or Supporters take part in an Appeal

- [13] Within 14 days of being notified of an appeal by the Commission, the DoE or District Council must inform the PAC of
- Any person who was notified of the appeal.
 - Any person who made representations to the DoE or District Council and
 - Any person who the DoE or District Council consider have a particular interest in the appeal.

PAC will invite any such person to take part in the appeal and any letters of objection/support will be copied to the appellant. Objectors or supporters can decide to rely on their initial letter and take no further part in the process or they can submit a Statement of Case and take part in any hearing or accompanied site visit that is arranged.

As the substance of representations is of more significance than the volume, objectors and supporters sharing a common cause are encouraged and expected to join together to present a single Statement of Case and to appoint one or two people to represent and speak for them at a hearing or site visit. They may obtain names and addresses of other objectors/supporters from the PAC.

- [14] Objectors and supporters who wish to take part in the appeal process will be sent a copy of the appellant's and the DoE's/District Council's Statements of Case and the appellant and DoE/District Council will be sent a copy of their Statements of Case. They may raise other issues in relation to the proposal and the other parties should be prepared to deal with these additional concerns and the Commissioner will consider them if they are relevant.

The Choice of Appeal Procedure

- [15] The time and cost involved in pursuing an appeal will depend on the procedure to be followed, the complexity of the appeal and the level of representation which the parties wish to engage in the conduct of the appeal.

- [16] There are two types of appeal procedure:

Written Representation (WR) - two options

1. Written representation; or
2. Written representation with an accompanied site visit.

Hearing - two options

1. Informal hearing; or
2. Formal hearing.

- [17] At the outset both the DoE/District Council and the appellant are asked by the PAC which type of appeal procedure they wish to use. The PAC encourages appeals to be dealt with by the WR procedure and if the appellant and DoE/District Council select that, then that is generally facilitated, although the PAC may decide that a hearing is required. If either the appellant or the DoE/District Council want an accompanied site visit with a WR appeal then that is facilitated by the PAC. If either of them request a hearing then by law they have a right to a hearing. Where a hearing is chosen by the appellant or the DoE/District Council the PAC encourages them to select an informal hearing when the issues are straightforward as this represents a more effective and efficient method of gathering information in a less intimidating atmosphere. The PAC then chooses the type of hearing which it considers most appropriate, taking into account the following criteria:

- what the appellant and the DOE/District Council have indicated as their preference;
- the scale and nature of the proposal;

- the complexity of the legal and technical issues; and
- the amount of public response.

The PAC expects the DoE/District Council and the appellant, in the appeal form, to specifically identify the complex issues that justify a request for a formal hearing. The critical test will be the need for the issues to be tested by formal questioning from opposing parties. Objectors and supporters must comply with whatever procedure is decided upon by the PAC.

- [18] Informal hearings are as user friendly as possible and avoid the intimidatory atmosphere which some appellants and third parties feel is present in the more adversarial formal hearings. The PAC recognises it must comply with the principles of openness, fairness and impartiality to which it is committed. Informal hearings must not, therefore, be so relaxed that lack of structure undermines the essential requirement that all critical issues are examined adequately.

The Commission or the appointed Commissioner, whether requested or not to do so by the parties, may abandon an informal hearing at any stage, having regard to the criteria set out above if it becomes apparent that it would be more appropriate to proceed by way of a formal hearing. In these circumstances alternative arrangements will be made for a formal hearing and all parties will be advised of this.

- [19] In choosing the procedure which is most appropriate to the case, an appellant and the DoE/District Council should note:

- Submission of advance written evidence (Statements of Case) within specified time limits is required for all types of procedure.
- The WR procedure is generally quicker and less costly than an appeal by way of hearing.
- At any stage in the WR process the PAC or the Commissioner may seek further information by requesting additional written submissions from the parties or by arranging a hearing to clarify issues which can not be properly covered by written submissions.
- Informal hearings have a less intimidating atmosphere.
- Formal hearings are only necessary for complex cases.

No matter which type of procedure is used, the PAC gives the case the same careful consideration.

Stages in Each Type of Procedure

[20] Written Representation Procedure without Accompanied Site Visit

Stage 1 - Submission of Statements of Case by all parties within four weeks of the request by the PAC.

Stage 2 - All submitted documents are exchanged as appropriate through the PAC and two weeks allowed for the submission of any comments. These are copied to participating parties for information only.

Stage 3 - The case is considered by the Commissioner, who carries out a site visit and issues a decision on the appeal or reports to the PAC, normally within two weeks.

Stage 4 - (If applicable) the PAC considers the case and normally issues its decision no later than two weeks from the presentation of the report to the PAC meeting.

[21] Written Representation Procedure with Accompanied Site Visit

Stage 1 - All parties are notified of the date, time and place for the site visit and are required to submit their Statement of Case within four weeks.

Stage 2 - All submitted documents are exchanged as appropriate through the PAC and two weeks allowed for the submission of any comments. These are copied to participating parties for information only.

Stage 3 - The case is considered by the Commissioner, who carries out the accompanied site visit and issues a decision on the appeal or reports to the PAC, normally within two weeks.

Stage 4 - (If applicable) the PAC considers the case and normally issues its decision no later than two weeks from the presentation of the report to the PAC meeting.

[22] Informal Hearing Procedure

Stage 1 - The PAC normally gives parties eight weeks notice of the hearing date and sets out arrangements for submission and exchange of Statements of Case between relevant parties.

Stage 2 - Statements of Case are submitted by all participating parties at least two weeks prior to the hearing and circulated by the PAC to be read by all parties in preparation for the hearing.

Stage 3 - The hearing is conducted by the Commissioner.

Stage 4 - The case is considered by the Commissioner who visits the site with or without the attendance of the parties and issues a decision on the appeal or reports to the PAC normally within four weeks of the hearing.

Stage 5 - [If applicable] the PAC considers the case and normally issues its decision no later than two weeks from the presentation of the report to the PAC meeting.

Formal Hearing Procedure

Stage 1 - The PAC normally gives the parties twelve weeks notice of the hearing date and sets out arrangements for submission and exchange of Statements of Case.

Stage 2 - Statements of Case are submitted by all participating parties and these are exchanged by the PAC and two weeks allowed for the submission of rebuttals. These are copied to participating parties. All documents should be read prior to the hearing

Stage 3 - The hearing is conducted by the Commissioner.

Stage 4 - The case is considered by the Commissioner who visits the site with or without the attendance of the parties and issues a decision on the appeal or reports to the PAC normally within five weeks of the hearing.

Stage 5 - [If applicable] the PAC considers the case and normally issues its decision no later than two weeks from the presentation of the report to the PAC meeting.

The Chief Commissioner appoints a Commissioner (called the appointed Commissioner) to deal with appeals on the basis of whatever procedure is most appropriate.

The Arrangements before a Hearing or an Accompanied Site Visit

[24] For a Hearing:

- When the PAC writes to the appellant setting out the date for the submission of the Statement of Case, the letter will also indicate a date and venue for the hearing. If the hearing date is acceptable there is no need to reply and the allocated date is confirmed without further notice and cannot be subsequently changed. If the hearing date is unacceptable the appellant must notify the Commission, giving alternative dates, and the PAC will then choose one of these as the accepted date of the hearing. The appellant's alternative dates must be no later than six weeks from the date offered by the Commission. Before selecting these dates the appellant should ensure that each date suits everyone he/she wished to attend. Once the PAC arrangements have been fixed, any request for a postponement will ONLY be granted in the most compelling circumstances.
- The DoE/District Council is expected to accept the notified date and will only be granted a postponement in the most compelling circumstances. Objectors and supporters will be informed of the time, date and venue arranged for the hearing and sent a proforma asking what further involvement they want in the hearing and if they wish to make a Statement of Case.

Given that appeals are initiated by the appellant and that only the DoE/District Council and the appellant have a statutory right of hearing, hearing or site visit dates will not be postponed at the request of third parties.

- All parties will be informed of the timetable for the submission of their Statements of Case and the number of copies that will be required. It is advisable to appoint representatives or witnesses early so as to give them sufficient time to gather the evidence necessary to support the case being made.
- Hearings within the Council areas of Belfast, Lisburn, Carrickfergus, Castlereagh, Newtownabbey and North Down will be heard at the PAC's Offices in Belfast. Other hearings are normally conducted in a venue in the District Council area of the appeal site.
- If, as occasionally happens, the hearing is not completed on the day that was arranged, it will normally continue on the following day. Parties should be alert to this possibility, particularly when a large volume of complex evidence has been submitted.

If you or anyone you know wishes to take part in a hearing or site visit and you have special needs such as a requirement for disabled access, please contact the PAC at any early stage so that we can seek to make appropriate arrangements.

[25] For an Accompanied Site Visit:

- All parties will be informed of the date of the accompanied site visit normally at least eight weeks before this takes place. The arrangements cannot be changed except in the most compelling circumstances.

Statements of Case

- [26] Statements of Case must be submitted by all parties participating in appeals. You must arrange for the required number of full copies to be sent to the Commission by the specified date. The number of copies you need to submit will be indicated to you by letter. Copies received after the specified date or which are incomplete on the specified date will not be accepted by the PAC and will be sent back.

Your Statement of Case should not exceed 1500 words and should include:-

- all the evidence to support your case, including the evidence of all your witnesses;
- a list of documents referred to; and

- any relevant maps at A3 or A4 size only.

If you are referring to other cases or appeal decisions then full copies of the case or appeal decision must be included. Your Statement of Case MUST BE SUBMITTED ON TIME.

Parties, mainly the appellant and the DoE/District Council should seek to agree facts/methodologies and identify areas of agreement and areas of dispute. These should be set out in the Statement of Case and evidence should concentrate on the matters in dispute. As appropriate draft conditions, submitted on a without prejudice basis, should be appended to the DoE/District Council's Statement of Case.

Parties seeking to introduce new issues at a hearing or WR site visit will have to persuade the Commissioner that they are relevant issues and that they could not have been dealt with in the Statement of Case. The introduction of such late evidence is to be avoided as it could result in delays.

- [27] The time limits for submission of Statements of Case and the exchange of documents will be applied strictly and will only be extended in the most exceptional circumstances. If anyone fails to submit within the specified period they will not receive the documentation supplied by the other parties and the appeal will proceed to determination on the basis of the information available to the PAC.
- [28] Site visits and hearings are open to the public and anyone can attend. If anyone did not submit a Statement of Case within the appropriate time, they will only be allowed to take part in the hearing or site visit as permitted by the Commissioner.

Preparing for the Appeal

- [29] There is a considerable amount of preparatory work to be carried out for an appeal and it is advisable to give yourself sufficient preparation time in order to be able to submit your Statement of Case on time. The PAC will send appellants a copy all papers provided by DoE/District Council. Copies of these papers will be available to other parties on payment of a charge.
- [30] Copies of previous Commissioners' reports and PAC decisions are available on the PAC website: www.pacni.gov.uk.

What Happens at an Informal Hearing

- [31] Statements of Case are not read out and the hearing takes the form of a discussion led by the Commissioner who identifies the main issues and sets out the issues requiring further clarification. The hearing is conducted on the basis of a round table discussion of these issues, led by the Commissioner. All parties are given an opportunity to get involved in the round table discussion. Formal rebuttal evidence may not be introduced at informal hearings but there will be an opportunity to raise relevant rebuttal points during the exploration of issues in the course of discussion led by the Commissioner.

- [32] When the Commissioner considers that there has been sufficient investigation and clarification of an issue he/she will indicate that discussion should move on to the next issue. All parties may be assisted in the discussion by an agent or adviser but any representatives you bring along must accept that there is no formal questioning at such hearings. During the hearing the Commissioner may decide to adjourn it to the site in order to deal with site specific issues. If this is done, discussion at the site will be confined to those site-specific matters.

What Happens at a Formal Hearing

- [33] Documents are not read out at the hearing. The Commissioner may set out the main issues on which he/she requires further clarification. Parties may be professionally represented (but do not have to be so) and witnesses may be available to answer questions and discuss points arising from their Statement of Case. Parties, in turn, may briefly explain their current position and address points made by opposing parties. Evidence is probed through questioning by the other parties and by the Commissioner. The usual order of presentation is that the DoE/District Council presents its evidence first and is questioned; followed in order by objectors (or their spokesperson), the appellant and finally supporters (or their spokesperson). There are no formal closing statements.
- [34] Keep the opening remarks precise. As the Commission requires all issues and relevant material to be contained in the documents, it is not expected that new issues will be raised by you at the hearing, although the Commissioner's attention should be drawn to changes that have taken place since your documents were sent in. Further documents will only be accepted at the discretion of the Commissioner. Any new maps or plans must be available at A3 and/or A4 size. If any documents are accepted two copies must be given to the Commissioner and enough copies made for the other parties. If the parties have reached some common agreement on technical evidence this should be identified to the Commissioner, but a postponement of the hearing will not be granted in order for negotiations on such agreement to be continued.
- [35] Questioning of evidence assists the Commissioner in deciding what weight to give to that evidence. It is most useful to the Commissioner when it tests the validity of facts, assumptions, opinions and conclusions and exposes any defects in the witnesses' statements. Don't raise issues through questioning which can be more clearly and concisely covered in direct evidence. Questions to a witness should be clear and brief and witnesses should not be interrupted when replying. If anyone wishes a witness to comment on a document they should give reasonable advance notice of the document and if a comment is requested on an extract from a document, the entire document should be produced at the hearing. Persistent and repetitive questions seeking to change the mind of a witness should be avoided. All witnesses must answer the question and can be pressed about their evidence and expert witnesses should expect to face robust questioning. However, bullying tactics are out of place and questioning should not be aggressive. Non-expert witnesses should be questioned sensitively. While genuine wit and humour are not out of place, irrelevant asides and sarcasm are unhelpful and must be avoided.

- [36] The Commissioner takes an active role in investigating evidence relating to the issues raised and will generally ask questions throughout the proceedings.

What Happens at Site Visits

The Commissioner always visits the site before making a decision or a recommendation on a WR appeal case.

A WR Site Visit

- [37] When an accompanied site visit is held the purpose is to address site specific issues raised by the Commissioner but occasionally clarification of other matters may be sought by the Commissioner. THE SITE VISIT IS NOT AN OPEN AIR HEARING. If the Commissioner arrives on the site to find one of the parties invited to attend is not present, the site visit will nevertheless proceed.

Site Visits for Hearings

- [38] The Commissioner always visits the site and the parties are offered the opportunity to attend if they wish. The Commissioner will indicate at the hearing if he/she requires the parties to attend and this must be arranged at the hearing. Parties cannot simply turn up at the site visit without having indicated their intention to the Commissioner at the hearing. The Commissioner controls the site visit.

Evidence Submitted after the Hearing or Site Visit

- [39] Normally no evidence should be submitted after the hearing or site visit unless this has been agreed at the hearing or site visit by the Commissioner. Any evidence sent to the PAC, which was not agreed by the Commissioner will be returned.

Powers of the PAC

- [40] In deciding an appeal under (a) to (e) and (g) (paragraph 7), the PAC may allow or dismiss the appeal or may reverse or vary any part of the decision. In deciding an appeal under (f) (paragraph 7) the PAC may quash the notice or affirm it either in its original form or with modifications.

The PAC Decision

- [41] After the appeal hearing and/or the appropriate site visit has taken place the Commissioner considers the evidence. If the decision is by an individual Commissioner, that Commissioner prepares a decision which is issued by the PAC to all parties. If the decision is collective the Commissioner prepares a report with a recommendation which is copied to a panel of Commissioners. They study the report and recommendation and may visit the site, if that has been agreed to by the parties at the hearing. After this a decision will be taken by the panel, of no fewer than four Commissioners, at a meeting at which reports and recommendations are discussed.

- [42] Since collective appeal decisions are taken by the Commission, the recommendation of the appointed Commissioner may not be accepted. Where the PAC reaches a different conclusion, the decision of the PAC sets out clearly the full reasoning which gave rise to the decision. The PAC decision and not the Commissioner's report is the appeal decision. The PAC decision (individual or collective) is final. There is no further appeal except on a point of law to the High Court (see paragraphs 50-51).
- [43] The PAC informs all parties of its decision. If it is a collective decision, the DoE/District Council, appellant and objectors/supporters (who attended the hearing or took part in the exchange of written submissions or attended the accompanied site visit) also receive copies of the Commissioner's report. If anyone was represented by an agent then the decision and report [if applicable] go to the agent. Copies of the decision and the report [if applicable] are available to anyone who asks for a copy or may be viewed on the Commission's website.

Complaints

- [44] A complaint is any expression of dissatisfaction by any party involved in the process about the way the PAC handled an appeal. Complaints should be made within six months of the date of the PAC's decision on an appeal. A complaint should be made in writing to the Chief Administrative Officer of the PAC and will normally be acknowledged within seven working days of receipt. Complaints raising issues about an appeal which is still being processed by the Commission will not be responded to until consideration of that case has been completed. In the event of legal proceedings being initiated while a complaint is under consideration, the matter will be addressed through the legal process and not the complaints system.
- [45] Apart from the circumstances set out above, complaints will be investigated and a full reply will normally be issued within four weeks. Where this is not possible an interim reply will be issued within the four weeks indicating when a full response will be made.
- [46] All complaints are investigated by Senior Commissioners or Administrative Staff not directly involved in the matter giving rise to the complaint. Anyone dissatisfied with the written response to their complaint may request a meeting to discuss the response. Complaint files are open for public inspection.
- [47] An Independent Complaints Audit Panel, consisting of two members appointed respectively by the Royal Town Planning Institute and the Bar Council, reviews the operation of the Complaints System and presents a report to the Chief Commissioner which is available to the public.
- [48] Please note that the PAC cannot reconsider or alter an appeal decision once it has been issued. However, the PAC may issue a corrected decision or Commissioner's report (not a revised decision or report) correcting:

- (i) obvious typographical and textual errors; and/or
- (ii) wording which all parties, including the PAC and Commissioner, agree cannot be right.

Complaints to the Parliamentary Ombudsman for Northern Ireland

[49] If you have a complaint about maladministration by any member of the PAC's administrative staff you can ask the Ombudsman to investigate the matter. The Ombudsman should be approached through an MLA or MP. The Ombudsman has no power to question the merits of an appeal or to alter the PAC's decision.

Challenging the Commission in the Courts

[50] PAC decisions or rulings may be challenged by application for a judicial review to the High Court. This must be done promptly or in any event within three months of the appeal decision and you will need legal advice.

[51] The grounds for review may only be made on a point of law which in essence means that it has to be demonstrated that the decision is illegal, irrational or procedurally improper.

Appendix I

Data Protection and Freedom of Information in the Planning and Water Appeals Commissions

DATA PROTECTION AND FREEDOM OF INFORMATION IN THE PLANNING AND WATER APPEALS COMMISSIONS

The Data Protection Act regulates the processing of information relating to individuals, including the obtaining, holding, use or disclosure of such information. The Commissions are fully committed to complying with the Act.

When processing an appeal, representations about a major development under Article 31 of the Planning (NI) Order 1991 or objections to a draft development plan, the Commissions receive a range of personal information from a number of sources, which falls within the remit of the Data Protection Act. This includes:-

- the original application, together with any documents of support or objection;
- the appeal form, together with any other documents of support or objection.

The information received by the Commission varies but may include

- details of an individual's name, address and occupation;
- information about the health, personal or family circumstances of an individual; and
- an individual's opinions about an application or appeal.

This information is held and considered by the Commissions in accordance with the principles set out in the Data Protection Act.

It is only used by the Commissions for considering the appeal or objection. It is only retained as long as reasonably necessary, usually no longer than a year from the completion of the Commission's work. However, all appeal decisions must have clear reasons for the conclusions reached and it may be necessary to refer to an individual's personal or family circumstances in a decision. All decisions are published on the Commissions' website at www.pacni.gov.uk and retained indefinitely. In addition, the Department of the Environment must register all appeal decisions by the Planning Appeals Commission in the Planning Register.

The Commission is a tribunal and must operate openly, fairly and impartially. All documents on casework files can be viewed by any member of the public, under the Commissions' supervision.

An individual should therefore only provide personal or sensitive information that he/she accepts will be available to the public. No-one should present personal information about other people without their consent. Information provided will not be vetted or redacted by the Commission because of its role to carry out its functions as an independent decision maker in an open, fair and transparent manner.

Under the Data Protection Act, an individual can request access to his/her personal information held by the Commission. Such requests should be in writing and sent to the address below. There is a charge of £10 for requests and the person making the request will also need to send proof of identity.

A request made under the Data Protection Act should include:-

- the specific information which is being sought;
- who you are and how you can be contacted;
- how you would like to receive the information.

Please also identify any accessibility requirements you may have and if you need to receive the information in a particular format, for example, large print, Braille etc.

You are entitled to a response to your request within 40 calendar days. It is in the Commissions' and your interests to hold accurate data. If the data is inaccurate, you can ask us to erase, amend or add to the information though you should note that personal or family circumstances referred to in an appeal decision cannot be changed. There will be no charge for this.

Any complaints about how the Commission dealt with requests about information, will be processed in accordance with the Commissions Complaints System which is published under Publications on Commissions website. These complaints will not be reviewed by the Complaints Audit Panel, see below.

If you remain dissatisfied with the Commission's response to your information request you may contact the Information Commissioner at

51 Adelaide Street

Telephone number: (028) 9026-9380
Fax number: (028) 9026-9388
email address: ni@ico.gsi.gov.uk; or website address: www.ico.gov.uk.

Requests for access to personal information should be sent to

The Chief Administrative Officer
Park House

The Commissions will review procedures regularly to ensure continued compliance with the Data Protection Act.

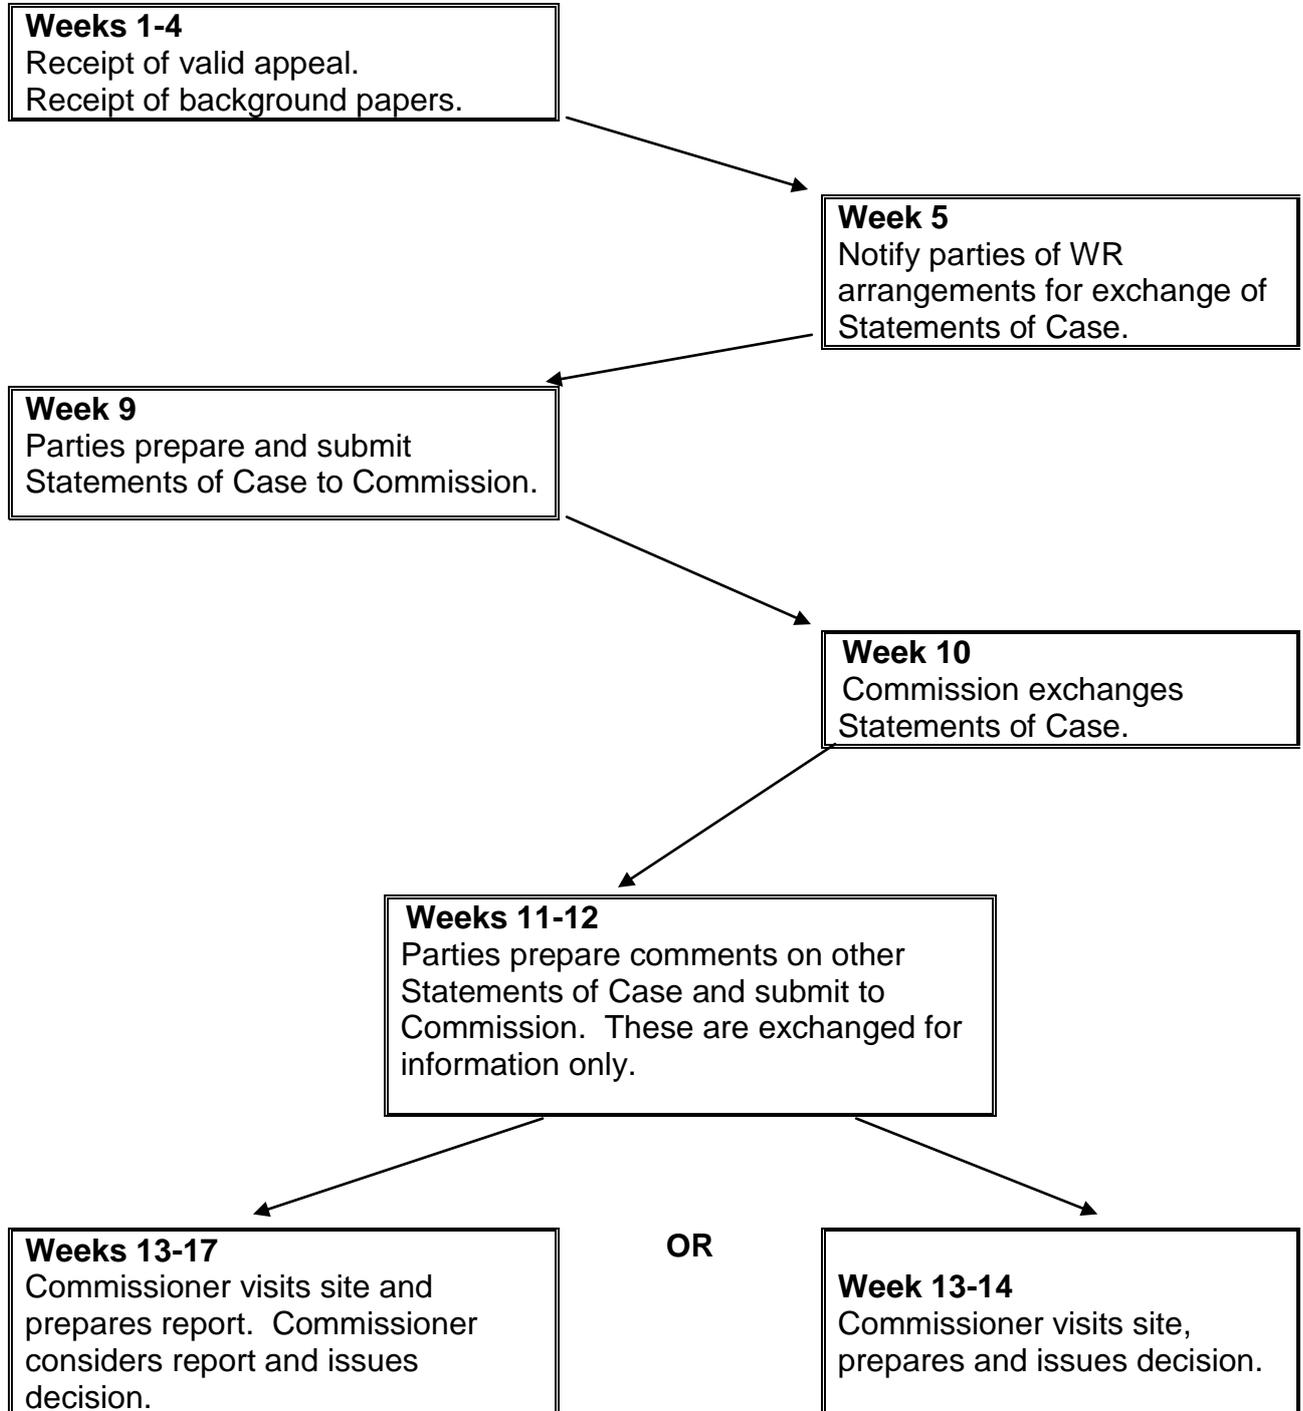

Freedom of Information Act - The Commissions are not identified as Public Authorities under the Act. The Environmental Information Regulations 2004 apply to any body that has public responsibilities relating to the environment, exercises functions of a public nature relating to the environment or provides public services relating to the environment. This could include the Commissions but the Regulations do not apply to the extent that the Commissions are acting in a judicial capacity. Nonetheless, as tribunals, which operate openly fairly and impartially, the Commissions seek to comply with the spirit of the Act and Regulations.
